Attorney Morschauser to-day declared he would place Thaw on the stand and allow Deputy Attorney General Roger Clarke to ask him any questions he saw fit, stipulating however, that the state's experts shall not question Thaw regarding his actions ever, that the state's experts shall not question Thaw regarding his actions prior to the killing of Stanford White. Clarke objected to this stipulation, declaring that if Thaw suffered from paranoia as alleged, he has systemized illusions which ought to be brought out. "There will be ample opportunity to question Thaw when he is placed on the stand," declared Justice Mills "and if the defense does not place him on the stand I'll order him there myself."

It has been agreed by the attorneys

It has been agreed by the attorneys that the experts will take their ex-amination of Thaw in open court after amination of Thaw in open court after all the lay witnesses for Thaw have completed their testimony. Miss Anna G. W. Dayley, of Poughkeepsle, a member of the bar, was the first witness for Thaw to-day.
